Archivist of the United States.
New Date: 2008

1. King Mihai's relations with the Grosse Government have deteriorated in recent weeks. The King has steadfastly refused to sign the new law for the trial of war criminals, which would endanger among others Dimitrie Nagel, present Marshal of the Royal Court.
2. Surveillance of the Palace and the Royal Family by Rumanian and Soviet intelligence services has been increased. Expressions of loyalty to the throne have placed even collaborators with the Grosse Government and the Soviet authorities under suspicion.
3. Attempts to undermine the King's popularity are under way. Publication of news of Carol's marriage to Mme. Lupescu was permitted in an effort to influence public opinion against the dynasty.
